Plenary Lecture 1

Micro-Entity Financial Reporting: Opinions and Debates

Abstract: At european level we are speaking about adoption of a series of amendments simplifying disclosure requirements for medium-sized companies and clarifying the obligation to draw up consolidated account. In order to facilitate significant simplification for the smallest limited liability companies, the proposal issued by the Commission of the European Communities in February 2009 (Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Council Directive 78/660/EEC on the annual accounts of certain types of companies as regards micro-entities, 2009) suggests that a category of micro-entities as the smallest enterprises could be introduced into the EU legislative framework. Positive effects of the review will include a reduction of burden mainly for small enterprises ("think small first") as well as qualitative improvements for all enterprises in the scope of the Directives. Micro-entities are however often subject to the same reporting rules as larger companies. Those rules put a burden on them which is not in proportion to their size and is therefore disproportionate for the smallest enterprises as compared to the larger enterprises. Therefore it should be possible to exempt micro-entities from the obligation to draw up annual accounts. However, micro-entities must still be subject to the obligation to keep records showing the company's business transactions and financial situation as a minimum standard to which Member States remain free to add further obligations. The time it took to find a solution provides evidences of the complexity of the matter. Maybe we should leave the users and preparers of micro-entitiy financial reports to impose their opinion related to the complexity of their information needs.
